

Newsletter Nr. 2

August 2017

Dear readers,

Welcome to the second edition of the HIRMEOS newsletter. The HIRMEOS newsletter keep you updated about developments in the project High Integration of Research Monographs in the European Open Science infrastructure \(HIRMEOS\).

Among the various project activities of the last weeks we are delighted to present you three new deliverables.

With the document Governance and quality assurance of service, our Work Package (WP) 4 has set the framework for a certification system. The aim is to create a certification system for peer review procedures and open license, for publishing platforms, at the level of publishers, books, and book chapters. The objective within HIRMEOS is to implement the service for publishers that make use of the publishing platforms of project partners (OpenEdition Books, Ubiquity Press, Göttingen University Press, EKT Open Book Press and OAPEN). The Certification service is provided by the Directory of Open Access Books \(DOAB\), which is operated by OAPEN.

The WP3 tested NERD service on the publishing platforms of project partners. NERD - Named Entity Recognition and Disambiguation allows the users to analyze any textual resource published on the and to extract from the text the named entities detected, typed and disambiguated by various NE extractor APIs. As expected the NERD service is correctly running on the publishing platforms of project partners and the annotations are following a minimum robustness for each application fields.

The WP7 has realized our Dissemination Toolkit which can be used by the project partners and by everyone willing to make the HIRMEOS project known. The Dissemination Toolkit presents the HIRMEOS design core identity and various dissemination material. On our website you can download different posters and flyers, a small postcard, a layout for PowerPoint presentations as well as the project logo in different formats.

Sincerely,

Andrea Bertino
